

If anything the laws for the "Do Not Call List" should be strengthened. It is an invasion of privacy to be called by people you did NOT give your number to. If I were to call people AND try to sell them things I would be taken to court! I'm tired, along with many other people I know, of being bothered by people I DO NOT want to speak to. End it now. If they want to sell something, let them open a store, send a catalog or get a web address. Enough is enough. Annette
